Speaker: William Goeren, MSW, OSW-C, LCSW-R, Director of Clinical Programs, CancerCare

Prior to his work at CancerCare, William was the Director of Mental Health for the AIDS HealthCare Foundation in Los Angeles, and, in 1994, opened the first Gilda's Club in New York City. He is the co-author of the chapter "Unique Issues Confronting Gay, Lesbian, and Bisexual Individuals Diagnosed with Cancer" for the Oxford University Press Handbook of Oncology Social Work and the author of the chapter "Social Work, HIV Disease, and Palliative Care" for the Oxford Textbook of Palliative Social Work.

Continuing Education (CE) Information

Goal: To provide the oncology social worker and nurse with an overview of the historical context of the LGBT identity as it contributes to the experience of the LGBT client affected by cancer; as well as a summation of research of LGBT cancer issues in reference to the minority stress model and healthcare disparity studies and a review of best practices in these areas.

Objectives: At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

- Describe the historical overview of the social, political, and psychosocial context focused on LGBT communities, as well as fundamentals of theory, definitions and the meaning of identity centered around minority stress model and healthcare disparities and its impact of the LGBT community affected by cancer.
- Explain the minority stress model, healthcare disparities and stigma as it relates to the impact on gay men, lesbians and the transgender community affected by cancer and their caregivers.
- Apply clinical advice for best practices and challenging belief systems, and suggestions for connecting to and creating a safety for LGBT clients.
- Discuss resources available including those from LLS for patients, caregivers and healthcare providers

Target Audience: Oncology nurses and social workers at all levels and licensure, and other healthcare professionals involved in the treatment of LGBT patients and their families.
